

Welcome back to the 'famous' ICNA Annual Conference Revue – 'One Last Time'!

'Many of you will remember many years of laughter, and tears, when The Revue was part of the annual conference social events calendar.

For conference 2007, Infection Prevention: A New Era, A New Outlook, The Revue is back, both bigger and better (we hope!!) This will be a fitting way to mark the end of an era, as the ICNA prepare to formally move over to being the Infection Prevention Society. So lets make the last ICNA Annual Conference Revue – 'One Last Time' a night to remember!

To be held in The Brighton Conference Centre on the evening of Monday 24th September, you are all invited to get your teams together, or prepare a solo act!, and wow the crowds with your singing, dancing, comical and/or acting talents! The Revue will follow a drinks and buffet reception to be held in the Exhibition Hall at the end of the day's sessions, with an hour in between for 'costume changes'!!

The Centre will be transformed for all budding X Factor, Pop Idol and 'How do you solve a problem like Maria' hopefuls and promises to be a spectacular event with some interested parties already informally approaching the Scientific Programme Committee to note their intentions!!

So get your act together (boom boom!) and prepare to wow your colleagues with your talents. This could be your '5 minutes of fame', who knows where it will lead! The performance can be in any area that you feel your talents lie. No matter how polished or rehearsed, it will be a great opportunity to show off more than your infection control talents for a change!

Claire Kilpatrick, ICNA Scientific Programme Committee (SPC) Co-ordinator
